

Paradigm Trust Pedagogy Newsletter #22

March 15th 2019

Dear Colleagues,

I wanted to share with you some brilliant education podcasts in case you have train/car journeys ahead.

Ollie Lovell is great Australian maths teacher, who gets well known educationists talking about their key interests. This week's podcast is with Daisy Christodoulou, the champion of Comparative Judgement and knowledge curricula (here). His list of podcasts is here.

The Learning Scientists also have a great podcast. I especially like their episodes on the 6 effective techniques for effective learning:

- Retrieval Practice
- Spaced Practice
- Elaboration
- Interleaving
- Concrete Examples
- Dual Coding

Mr Barton is another wonderful maths teacher with a podcast (here).

There are many more great podcasts out there (The Physics Teaching Podcast anyone)? If you can recommend any subject specific ones, please let me know.

Best wishes,

Ben
